

Onboarding Executives Requires Attention To A Thousand Small Details. Well, Not Any More.

Ever Wish There Were Two Of You?

Relocating A Team Member Is A Stressful, Herculean Task From Both A Corporate and Personal Perspective. We'll Make It Easier.

It goes without saying that hiring and transferring new senior staff requires a team of experts in many different disciplines. You want the relocation to go as smoothly as possible to make your new addition feel comfortable, welcome and most of all, important. The best (and easiest) solution is to onboard Carver Concierge first. We can:

- Coordinate the customized, individual needs of each executive AND their family
- Handle a full range of services from travel, transportation, moving and storage
- Assist with temporary and permanent housing options
- Identify and advise on schools, home services and even home organization
- Treat everyone with an unparalleled level of service quality

Carver Concierge is the high-touch, white glove, full-service corporate relocation team you've been looking for. We support your new staff and your current executive team as you would, with the highest level of personal care - extending your HR engagement well beyond the traditional toward the extraordinary.

Best of all, we work in concert with your internal team as well as the individual themselves. Of course we have a vetted listed of professional service providers, but are perfectly happy working with those vendor services that you have come to trust.

With Carver in place, you're free to pursue your corporate mission and focus on your "real job" and leave the relocation details to us. And while we are located in Tampa, FL, with our national concierge collaborative, our capabilities to provide client services are geographically unlimited.

We look forward to a conversation about how we might be able to make your client's move better and your real estate life considerably easier.

OUR COMMITMENT

Having it all is possible. Nicole Carver understands the real life challenges busy people face. For over two decades, Nicole provided executive level assistance to busy corporate executives and government officials, while balancing family life and the responsibilities of a military spouse.

Put simply, Nicole, gets it!

“You take care of the things that bring you joy and money, we’ll take care of the rest!”

Our tag line, “Ever Wish There Were Two Of You?” has never been more true than it is in the real estate industry. Thinning margins and fees, digital and human competition and everchanging market conditions require you to often be in two places at the same time. By partnering with Carver Concierge, now you actually can!
